Contents

Acknowledgments vii

1. Introduction: Cargo, Cult, and Culture Critique 1
   Holger Jebens

PART I: AGAINST CARGO

2. Cargo Cult at the Third Millennium 15
   Lamont Lindstrom

3. Dissolving the Self-Other Dichotomy in Western “Cargo Cult” Constructions 36
   Elfriede Hermann

4. Neither Traditional nor Foreign: Dialogics of Power and Agency in Fijian History 59
   Martha Kaplan

PART II: EXPANDING THE FRAMEWORK

5. Mutual Hopes: German Money and the Tree of Wealth in East Flores 79
   Karl-Heinz Kohl

6. Violence and Millenarian Modernity in Eastern Indonesia 92
   Nils Bubandt

7. Government, Church, and Millenarian Critique in the Imyan Tradition of the Religious (Papua/Irian Jaya, Indonesia) 117
   Jaap Timmer

PART III: CARGO AS LIVED REALITY

8. Encountering the Other: Millenarianism and the Permeability of Indigenous Domains in Melanesia and Australia 137
   Robert Tonkinson

9. Talking about Cargo Cults in Koimumu (West New Britain Province, Papua New Guinea) 157
   Holger Jebens
10. From “Cult” to Religious Conviction: The Case for Making Cargo Personal 170
   Stephen C. Leavitt

PART IV: COMPARISON AND CRITIQUE

    Doug Dalton

    Ton Otto

13. Thoughts on Hope and Cargo 227
    Vincent Crapanzano

14. On the Critique in Cargo and the Cargo in Critique: Toward a Comparative Anthropology of Critical Practice 243
    Joel Robbins

References 261
Contributors 283
Index 287