

Contents

PREFACE	vii
Introduction	1
PART I. THE EARLY SOURCES
1. Early Daoism in Retrospect: Cosmology, Ethics, and Eschatology Kwang-Ching Liu and Richard Shek	29
2. Ethics and Polity: The Heterodoxy of Buddhism, Maitreyanism, and the Early White Lotus Richard Shek	73
3. The Origins of Ming Buddhist Schism Whalen W. Lai	109
PART II. ASPECTS OF POPULAR RELIGION
4. Daoism and Orthodoxy: The Loyal and Filial Sect Richard Shek	139
5. Daoism and Local Cults: A Case Study of the Cult of Marshal Wen Paul R. Katz	172
6. Shamanism in the Eyes of Ming and Qing Elites Donald S. Sutton	209
PART III. ETERNAL MOTHER RELIGION
7. Eternal Mother Religion: Its History and Ethics Richard Shek and Tetsurō Noguchi	241
8. Religion and Politics in the White Lotus Rebellion of 1796 in Hubei Kwang-Ching Liu	281

PART IV. LATE QING PERSPECTIVES

9. The Triads and Their Ideology Up to the Early Nineteenth Century: A Brief History Wen-hsiung Hsu	323
10. The Heaven and Earth Society in the Nineteenth Century: An Interpretation David Faure	365
11. The Taipings in Chinese Sectarian Perspective P. Richard Bohr	393
12. Popular and Elite Heterodoxy Toward the End of the Qing Don C. Price	431
AFTERWORD: THE TWENTIETH-CENTURY PERSPECTIVE	463
APPENDIX: A NOTE ON THE USAGE OF THE CHINESE TERMS FOR HETERODOXY	477
GLOSSARY	491
CONTRIBUTORS	507
INDEX	509