APCG STUDENT PAPER AWARD WINNERS

The Awards Committee, under the leadership of Mark Wilson, presented the following Student Paper Awards at the 63rd Annual Meeting held in Arcata, California in September 2000.

The Tom McKnight and Joan Clemons Award for Outstanding Student Paper was presented to Maria Elena Conserva, University of California, Berkeley, for “A Paleoecological Record from Laguna Azteca, Hidalgo, on the Northern Frontier of Mesoamerica.”

The Harry and Shirley Bailey Award for Outstanding Paper by a Ph.D. Student was presented to Canfie He, Arizona State University, for “Information Costs, Agglomeration Economies and the Location of Foreign Direct Investment with China.”

The President’s Award for Outstanding Paper by a Ph.D. Student was presented to Kenneth Madsen, Arizona State University, for “Writing for Non-Geographers: Lessons from the J.B. Jackson Prize.”

The President’s Award for Outstanding Paper by an MA and/or MS Student was presented to Kelly Pohl, Portland State University, for “Methodology for Understanding the Effects of Climatic Variability on Forest Disturbance Processes.”

The President’s Award for an Outstanding Undergraduate Paper was presented to Katsiaryna Kryvaruchka, University of California, Riverside, for “Focal Taxa and the Selection of Multiple Species Reserves.”

The Association congratulates each of these recipients and applauds their fine efforts.